

Parenting Behavior and Impact

If you have never been hated by your child, you have never been a Parent.

NO PARENT IS RIGHT OR WRONG

WHY IS IT DIFFICULT TO HANDLE CHILDREN

- Every child is special but handle them with care.
- We think we can module them as per our convivences and expectations.
- We try and change their behavior.
- Get into small conflicts and arguments.
- Over parenting.

CONTROL FREAK

(AUTHORITARIAN PARENT)

- I want to try new things, my parents are always behind me, I do things to make them happy and to avoid unnecessary scolding from them.
- Demanding but not responsive.
- Little warmth or nurturing.
- Little explanation for punishments.
- Unwilling to negotiate.
- Shaming
- Always over power.

IMPACT

- If child is crying – parents ask them to stop without understanding
- If child is talking back- parents ask her to keep her mouth shut.
- If child forgets to keep her things back – parents punish her.
- Child may interpret – I have to control my emotions to fit in society, I am not allowed to speak the truth, lying or pretending is worth. To be in good books I will do what my parents say.

CHILD CENTRIC

AUTHORITATIVE PARENT

- I can freely talk, express my emotions. I sometimes fear trying new things but I never leave things half done. I know my parents understand and love me.
- Do not expect more.
- Spend quality time.
- Will allow time to develop.
- Will criticize and praise as well.
- set firm boundaries and never break.

IMPACT

- If child wants to play – parent will clearly set a time.
- If child asks for ice-cream – parent may give it once a week.
- If child throw his toys - parent may ask reason.

- Child may interpret - I am happy, my parents are strict at times but I get what I ask for. Following rules are necessary. I have to respect and listen people because they respect me. My emotions are important.

UNDER CONTROL

(PERMISSIVE PARENT)

- I do whatever I wish to, I get all the things I ask for. Sometimes when teacher or people ignore my demands I feel terribly bad and I get annoyed soon.
- Very loving and caring
- Always ask for opinion.
- Emphasis on child's freedom.
- Few rules and inconsistent.
- Child's happiness is always considered.

IMPACTS

- If child doesn't want to walk – Parent will carry her.
- If child wants to eat an ice-cream – Parent will immediately give ice- cream
- If child hits someone – Parent will not mind.
- Child may interpret – I can get anything that I want, my parents have to fulfill all my needs. People around me cannot reject me. Everything is so easy for me. Rules and regulations are not important. I can be unorganized.

NEGLECTING

(UNINVOLVED PARENT)

- I have many friends and I love my neighbors and teachers, my parents do not play with me and I feel emotionally unsafe and down all the time. I am ignored and let down every time.
- Parents are too occupied with their life.
- Inappropriate supervision.
- Lack of emotional attachment.
- No expectation from kids.
- Children are left alone and feel isolated

IMPACT

- If child wants to play – she is free to play all day.
- If child shows a drawing – Parent may not give feedback.
- If child wants to go out – Parent will not accompany.
- Child may interpret - I can do anything. My parents do not have time for me, I have to make friends and others care for me. I feel so lonely and I have no one to help.

REFLECTION

■ INHERIT

■ SOCIETY

■ CAN BE CHANGED

Over-thinking ruins you.

It ruins the situation.

It twists things around.

It makes you worry.

It just makes everything worse than it actually is.
